The Public's Health Care Agenda for the New Congress and Presidential Campaign

December 2006

Methodology

The Kaiser Family Foundation/Harvard School of Public Health Survey, The Public's Health Care Agenda for the New Congress and Presidential Campaign, was designed and analyzed by researchers at the Kaiser Family Foundation and Harvard School of Public Health. The Kaiser/Harvard survey research team included Drew E. Altman, Ph.D., Mollyann Brodie, Ph.D., and Claudia Deane, M.A. from the Kaiser Family Foundation; and Professor Robert Blendon, Sc.D., and John Benson, M.A. of the Harvard School of Public Health.

Fieldwork was done by telephone November 9 to 19, 2006 among a nationally representative sample of 1,867 respondents ages 18 and over -- including 1,363 respondents who reported voting in the midterm election -- by ICR/International Communications Research. The survey included an oversample of respondents ages 65 and over; a total of 718 respondents in this age group were interviewed. Overall results have been weighted to reflect the actual demographic distribution of the nation.

The margin of sampling error for results based on the full sample is plus or minus 3 percentage points. Margin of error for results based on respondents ages 18 – 64 or 65 + is plus or minus 4 percentage points. For results based on smaller subsets of respondents the margin of sampling error is somewhat higher. Note that sampling error is only one of many potential sources of error in this or any other public opinion poll.

Percentages may not always add up to 100% due to rounding.

Full question wording and all results are available separately at www.kff.org.

Chart 28

Reaction to Individual Coverage Mandate

To achieve universal health coverage, one proposal would require that everyone have health insurance, the way all drivers are required to have automobile insurance. People with higher incomes who do not have coverage would be required to buy insurance, and the government would help pay for insurance for those who can't afford it. Would you favor or oppose such a plan?

Proposals for Controlling Costs

Would you favor or oppose the following proposals?

One proposal would establish a new independent federal scientific body which would decide whether approved new medical technology and drugs should be covered by insurance, based on whether they are proven to be more effective than existing, less expensive treatments

Another proposal would require health plans to seek approval from a state commission before they could raise premiums. They would have to explain the reasons for raising premiums, including providing detailed financial information that would be publicly available to policyholders, employers, and state legislators
